Subject: Exchange with Paleontological Museum, Kiev, USSR

I few days ago, through the good offices of the National Academy of Sciences, I received the attached letter and a substantial collection of Recent shells from the Ukraine. These shells have been turned over to Dr. Clark.

As noted, this is a request for an exchange. The museum in Kiev desires fossil fish, fossil crustaceans and trilobites.

I shall be away for about a month. May I asked that the request for material be dealt with promptly and generously.

Dear professor Yochelson:

Paleontological Museum delivers you for the Museum of Natural History of Smithsonian Institution the collection of terrestrial and fresh water gastropods (recent species) gathered in Ukraina. Determinations on the species level are not included somewhere because of lack of the specialist on this group.

From our side we would much appreciate receiving some materials in exchange from your Institution, such as fossil fishes, crustaceans, and trilobites, for museum demonstration.

Sincerely yours

Senior officer of
Paleontological Museum
